

How to Report Workplace Safety Concerns, Incidents or Injuries

Step 1: Report if One of the Following Has Occurred

- I have a workplace safety concern to report
- I have a workplace safety incident to report
- I have injured myself at work
- For what to report, see page 4

Step 2: Report to Supervisor

- Report the concern, incident or injury immediately after the initial response to your supervisor verbally, in writing or both
- Note: If you are reporting workplace harassment and the harasser is your supervisor, contact the harasser's supervisor, an MTS staff officer, or the divisional safety officer

Step 3: Report on Employee Connect

- File a workplace safety concern using Employee Connect
- For details on how to report, see page 3

Step 4: What Happens Next?

- Safety concern and incident reports received by the Safety Officer will be communicated back to the administrator and worker(s) via email
- Incident reports filed using Employee Connect will appear on your Administrator Dashboard and you will receive an email as well
- If your concern is a minor concern:
 - A workplace safety investigation must involve a direct discussion of the safety concern or incident between a management representative (i.e. administrator) and the affected worker(s)
 - If the conversation provides enough detail as to root and contributing causes of the concern or incident, there is probably no need to investigate further
 - If the conversation does not provide enough detail as to root and contributing causes of the concern or incident, there is a need to conduct further investigation
- If your concern is a serious concern:
 - The Divisional WSH Committee Investigation Team must be part of any serious WSH division reportable incident investigation and will work with local administration to conduct the investigation, determine causes, and determine corrective actions
